

We needed a specialist in what we do - and couldn't find one! So we started with Responsiva with hesitation, there was a learning curve, but the important thing for us was that they did learn, we tightened things up and now require a lower quantity of appointments at a great price.

The pricing structure at Responsiva is excellent, the system they use dictates the price meaning if your campaign is getting easier for them to deliver your appointment price goes down! And the data at the end of the campaign is yours to use for mail shots etc.

I would give them a go, worst thing that can happen is you can't handle all the new prospects - it's a serious point to consider.

Regards

Mark Pearson